The traditions of tossing the bouquet and garter are for the benefit of the single guests in attendance. As it is said, the person who catches the bouquet or garter is next to wed.

It is wise for the bride to place her throwing bouquet at her head table or the cake table, early in the reception, so she will know exactly where it is, or she can designate someone to be in charge of this for her.

Many brides will wear two garters. Have the groom throw the garter you do not wish to keep. You do not get the tossed garter back,
